Just Thinking by Dr. Jim Schroeder

February's Just Thinking is a tale from the trail. For the past 3+ years, my kids and I, along with a number of family and friends, have been segment hiking/backpacking the 157 mile River to River trail in Illinois from Elizabethtown on the Ohio River to Grand Tower on the Mighty Mississippi. We have a little over 17 miles left, and it has been a tremendous, memorable experience filled with adventure, beauty, camaraderie, and insights. The article this month entitled "Toward the Top" is about our most recent segment, and it includes the insights and grace received on the trail. It once again reminded me that some of the most meaningful, and most formative things that occur in life, truly happen one step at a time. Read the whole story at <https://james-schroeder.com/toward-the-top/>.

Fund an Item

Your generosity and ongoing care for our students, staff and families at Holy Rosary parish and school can make this addition to our campus possible and keep us all moving forward!

WALKING/RIDING PATHS

Walking is a viable and valuable form of exercise for young children that has both physical and mental health benefits. A school-wide crushed stone walking track can be a great way to encourage walking in and out of school, can be aligned with the curriculum for educational benefits and has proven to be a successful motivator.

School walking tracks are a versatile amenity, fit for a range of activities for all families. We learn more and stretch our possibilities farther when we are in a healthy place both mentally and physically at school.

The walking track will enhance the Holy Rosary K-8 playground area. The quarter mile track begins at the northeast gate and follows the outline of the playground area. This has the potential to be expanded in the future.

The preschool playground will be enhanced with a walking and riding track to benefit and promote physical activity for our 3-5 year olds.

Adding a walking track to our school and parish community encourages an active wellness culture and helps make it a better place to live for everyone. Let's get walking!

Marian Educational Outreach

Celebration Night

APRIL 29, 2023

Easter Seals Crescent Room

621 S Cullen Ave, Evansville, IN 47715

A night of dinner and dance to celebrate the children!
May they be loved, embraced, and included in all they do...
today and always.

Marian Educational Outreach is an organization committed to providing opportunities for students with unique learning needs to reach their highest potential while remaining in the Catholic school system of the Diocese of Evansville, Indiana.

Introducing some of the families who benefit from your generosity...

"MEO has made a huge impact on our family. Our children have always attended a Catholic school. We value the faith-based focus, the smaller class size and the support we receive in the Catholic School system. When Zoe came into our family's life and we were given the opportunity to adopt her, it was hard knowing she would have a different experience in her education because of having Autism. After discovering the huge support of MEO, we were able to transfer Zoe to a Catholic school just like the rest of her siblings. The acceptance, support, religious foundations, adaptation to class work, understanding, patience and helpfulness of this program has been absolutely amazing. It has been incredible to watch her learn and grow at a rate we had never seen her do before. She is now meeting the expectations of the classroom because she is given the support she needs from the MEO program. We are so thankful for the MEO program and the opportunity it has given Zoe and our family. "

Because of YOU, we can continue supporting families like these!
Over 900 students are directly impacted by your gift.

Your donation is so impactful.
Thank You for giving to Marian Educational Outreach.

I/We agree to sponsor on the following level for 2023 MEO Celebration Night:

_____ Yes, I/we agree to Platinum Sponsorship at $10,000

Fueling and Hydrating Active Children

by Jennifer Kerr, MS, RD, CDN

When young people are athletic or very active, their need for food and fluids is higher. If you have specific concerns about your child's intake regarding sports, consult your family doctor or a registered dietitian.

Below are tips to help active kids get the food and fluids they need:

FOODS

Athletes need food with lots of nutrients and minimal amounts of fat and added sugar. High-quality carbohydrates from whole-grains, fruits, vegetables and dairy foods are especially important. Children need extra energy for their sport's practices and games, plus normal levels for growth and development.

Here's how to provide the energy they need:

Serve a balanced breakfast. Offer whole-grain cereals, waffles or muffins with fruit, like bananas, blueberries and apples. Create a yogurt parfait with layers of low-fat yogurt; fresh or frozen fruit and crunchy whole-grain cereal or chopped nuts. When morning practices or road trips make breakfast difficult, pack a bag with a bagel, fruit, string cheese, yogurt cup, juice box, etc. for eating on the run.

Pack a healthy snack. Traveling athletes need healthy snacks. Fill an insulated bag with high-energy snacks. Use frozen juice boxes, water bottles or reusable gel packs to keep items cold. Provide pre- and post-game snacks like crackers and cheese, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches; trail mix, fruit or vegetables with dip.

FLUIDS

All athletes, including children, need fluids to stay well hydrated. Fluids are critical to prevent overheating and to remove the wastes produced by active muscles. Being even slightly dehydrated can affect performance.

Teach children to monitor fluid intake. Regular trips to the bathroom with basically clear, nearly odorless urine indicate good hydration. Not having to urinate or producing dark-yellow, strong-smelling urine means it's time to drink more.

Increase fluid with activity. Children need to drink at least six 8-ounce cups of water per day. Add another 8 ounces for every half hour of strenuous activity. Give kids a water bottle to carry in the car, on the bus, at school and on the field.

Choose beverages carefully. Water is always a great choice. For activities lasting less than an hour, water will provide optimal hydration. For longer activities, water as well as diluted 100 percent fruit juice or sports drinks may be provided.
